

Heritage Award 2011

Working to protect Ludlow's Environmental and Architectural Heritage for future generations

We are delighted to receive a Ludlow Area Advisory Committee Heritage Awards for:

The Butercross – is an iconic building with a history of problems. The roof and the cupola were in urgent need of renovation. All works were undertaken by Treasure and Son to a very high standard.

The clock was suffering from exposure to the elements and in need of protection. It has been totally refurbished and secured for the future with a modern winding solution with a pendulum regulator.

The old original clock workings are intact and preserved for the future in superb working order repaired with new glass where broken and cracked. The doors below at ground level were taken away from the open market area and totally refurbished using heritage colours and door furniture.

The arched window at the rear of Benson's shop is a new feature with black laminated glass to cover what was a window with a bricked up grey block wall behind.

New clock face glass

Re-gilded weather vane

New lead work on roof

We are also delighted to be nominated for a Ludlow Area Advisory Committee Heritage Award at:

The Linney Riverside Park - the first stage of the Linney Riverside Park works stabilised the banks to prevent further erosion. The scheme was designed in consultation with the Environment Agency to ensure that the delicate flood plain eco system remains intact. Coir matting rolls pinned with hazel stakes (pictured left) will help to establish native riverbank planting Using dolorite will hopefully secure the bank for many years to come as the River Teme was in danger of one day carving its way through the bend undermining Ludlow Castle and homes in its path. The play park can now be built and our riverbank heritage preserved. The project is not yet completed and will be considered for an award again next year
